HISPALI, apud Frincifcum de Lyra.

INTENTO DEL PANEGIRICO, I

satisfacion a las tacitas.

SON tan varios los tesoros, tan varios los despojos de letras i virtudes, que al divino Isidoro sobre apuesta hermosean, que por excelencia se alçò con la variedad [sin la qual no ai hermosura] por ser justo que esta refiera tantas, i tan varias de tal varon; de ella pues valiendome en esta, como en otras festividades, en que varias oratorias a lo Latino vestidas tocò de retorica mi pluma, me expuse a explayarme por la plumosa variedad, o varias plumas de aquellos, que por morir Cisnes renacieron Fenix en la memoria de los humanos, para panegirizar en la corta carrera de trabajo no corto, el oro de la sabiduria de Isidoro, i la piedra preciosa de su santisima virtud.

Hallaràs [o prudente lector] en este Panegirico observadas con toda obediencia las leyes preceptivas de Centon, sin mudar numero de algun nombre, o verbo, sin trastrocar, entresacar, ni interponer parte de oracion alguna, sin quitar ni añadir alguna interjecion, conjuncion, o particula. Hallaràs versos [aunque pocos] citados solamente con el nombre del Autor; que si por no ser sacados de la fuente pierden algo de lo suave, no de la autoridad, que por esso digo teste Textore, de quien son citados en sus epitetos, i fue la causa la ambicion de querer dilatarme en mas variedad, y no ser possible tener todos los textos. No hallaràs Centon de una parte de oracion, porque esta es en comun de todos, i en particular de ninguno, de dos es el menor, y el mayor de dos versos seguidos cortados, i esto no mas de dos vezes, permitido serà, pues no se prohibe al que es nada escrupuloso, que los componga de tres. Valeas.

45. (Quod logicæ laqueos, & cœca sophismata soluis)
46. Trita solo, 47. veterum voluens monimenta virorum,
48. Vera sed arcanis misteria condita rebus?
49. Scire tuum 50. doctos alto cum pectore iungit,
51. Sic tibi nec docti desint, nec principis artes,
52. Carmina seu fundis, 53. tu par assuetus Homero,
54. [Sed princeps sibi quisque fuit] 55. qui primus amæno
Detulit ex Helicone perenni fronde coronam,
56. Ferre iugum, senosque pedes æquare solutis
Versibus, 57. hic fretus doctas anteire canendo
Aonias, 58. vates magnorum maxime vatum,
59. Ingenio frueris, 60. quod nulla 61. obliteret ætas.
